

GEFCO Select #EE140 Animation Computer Interface with fiber-optic communications

Computers now the prevalent means of controlling everything in the world are now controlling fountains in the most modern and complex systems. Regardless if it is an Interactive Play Fountain at a City park or a Musical Fountain synchronized to the tunes of the day, the modern communications of today will allow your fountain service technician to help from anywhere on the globe for any project in the world via the internet. The ultra in control is e-mail notification directly from the control system on any condition desired to be reported, including i-Phone apps, to alert a selected group of people to an alarm or inoperative condition in the system
